Foreword

The Open University is open to people, places, methods and ideas. We promote educational opportunity and social justice by providing high-quality education to all who wish to realise their ambitions and fulfil their potential.

The Open University is innovative, responsive and inclusive. We deliver world-class, part-time education to people across the four nations of the UK and worldwide. We make a significant contribution to employability and productivity, strengthening the UK economy.

Since 1969, we have promoted educational opportunity and social justice by providing high-quality education to all those who wish to realise their ambitions and fulfil their potential. More than 2 million people have experienced this life-changing learning through their study with us.

We are committed to developing an inclusive university community and contributing to an inclusive and just society. This commitment is expressed in the vision and principles set out in this scheme.

Discrimination arising from individual characteristics and circumstances is not only unlawful, but a waste of talent and a denial of opportunity, preventing individuals, organisations and societies from achieving their growth potential.

Our mission is to be open to people, places, methods and ideas and this means that a commitment to equality is embedded in all that we do. We celebrate diversity and the strengths that it brings, we challenge under-representation and differences in outcomes, and we commit resources to specific positive action programmes.

As a public body, we also have several statutory duties.

The Public Sector Equality Duty under Section 149 of the Equality Act 2010 requires us to have due regard to the need to eliminate discrimination, advance equality and foster good relations between groups of people.

Section 75 of the Northern Ireland Act 1998 requires us to have due regard to the need to promote equality of opportunity and good relations across a range of characteristics.
In this equality scheme we set out our arrangements for how The Open University will meet these duties.

We will commit the necessary resources in terms of people, time and money to make sure that we comply with our statutory duties and that our equality scheme is implemented effectively, and on time.

We commit to having effective internal arrangements in place for ensuring our compliance with the statutory duties and for monitoring and reviewing our progress.

We will develop and deliver a programme of communication and training with the aim of ensuring that all our staff and governors are made fully aware of our equality scheme and understand the commitments and obligations within it.

We, the Chancellor and the Vice-Chancellor of The Open University, are fully committed to ensuring that the University fulfils its statutory equality duties effectively across all functions, including education and related services, employment, partnerships and procurement.

We realise the important role that our students and the public have to play to ensure our statutory duties are effectively implemented. Our equality scheme demonstrates how determined we are to ensure there is active engagement, so that people affected by our work can influence and shape our organisation.

On behalf of The Open University and our staff we are pleased to support and endorse this equality scheme which has been drawn up in accordance with the Public Sector Equality Duty under Section 149 of the Equality Act 2010, and Section 75 and Schedule 9 of the Northern Ireland Act 1998, and guidelines provided by the Equality and Human Rights Commission and the Equality Commission for Northern Ireland.

We expect commitment and involvement from all our staff, students, partners and providers of goods and services in ensuring compliance with our statutory duties and working towards the achievement of our equality vision and objectives.

Baroness Lane-Fox of Soho,
Chancellor

Tim Blackman,
Vice-Chancellor
The Public Sector Equality Duty under Section 149 of the Equality Act 2010 requires that a public authority must, in the exercise of its functions, have due regard to the need to:

- Eliminate discrimination, harassment and victimisation and any other conduct prohibited by or under the Act;
- Advance equality of opportunity between persons who share a relevant protected characteristic and persons who do not share it;
- Foster good relations between persons who share a relevant protected characteristic and persons who do not share it.

The relevant protected characteristics are

- Age
- Disability
- Gender reassignment
- Marriage and civil partnership
- Pregnancy and maternity
- Race
- Religion or belief
- Sex
- Sexual orientation

People with caring responsibilities are also protected from discrimination by virtue of their association with people with protected characteristics.

Section 75 of the Northern Ireland Act 1998 requires The Open University, in carrying out our functions relating to Northern Ireland, to have due regard to the need to promote equality of opportunity between

- Persons of different religious belief, political opinion, racial group, age, marital status or sexual orientation
- Men and women generally
- Persons with a disability and persons without
- Persons with dependants and persons without

In addition, without prejudice to the obligations above, in carrying out our functions in relation to Northern Ireland, we must have due regard to the desirability of promoting good relations between persons of different religious belief, political opinion or racial group.
1. Our vision, principles, scheme aims and responsibilities

1.1. Our vision of a fair and just society

We are creating an inclusive university community and a society:

- where people are treated with dignity and respect,
- where inequalities are challenged, and
- where we anticipate, and respond positively to, different needs and circumstances, so that everyone can achieve their potential.

1.2. Our equality and diversity principles

1. We value diversity and we recognise that different people bring different perspectives, ideas, knowledge and culture, and that this difference, when nurtured appropriately, brings great strength.

2. We believe that discrimination or exclusion based on individual characteristics and circumstances, such as age; disability; caring or dependency responsibilities; gender or gender identity; marriage and civil partnership status; political opinion; pregnancy and maternity; race, colour, caste, nationality, ethnic or national origin; religion or belief; sexual orientation; socio-economic background; trade union membership status or other distinctions, represents a waste of talent and a denial of opportunity for self-fulfilment.

3. We recognise that patterns of under-representation and differences in outcomes at The Open University can be challenged through positive action programmes.

4. We respect the rights of individuals, including the right to hold different views and beliefs. We will not allow these differences to be manifested in a way that is hostile or degrading to others.

5. We expect commitment and involvement from all our staff, students, partners and providers of goods and services in working towards the achievement of our vision.

1.3. Scheme aims

The aims of our equality scheme are aligned to the Public Sector Equality Duty in Great Britain and the Section 75 duty in Northern Ireland. 1) To eliminate unlawful discrimination, harassment and victimisation.

Eliminating unlawful discrimination, harassment and victimisation involves:

2. Context of our scheme

2.1. Background to the current scheme

The University’s equality scheme was originally launched in April 2016. A mid-term review was conducted in 2018, which was overseen by the Equality, Diversity and Inclusion Steering Group, chaired by Professor Josie Fraser. Key stakeholders were consulted for their views about the equality scheme. The review focused primarily on two elements:

1. Evaluation of the approved institutional objectives against the SMART principle (specific, measurable, achievable, relevant, and timely) in the context of a changing and changeable internal and external landscape.

2. Evaluation of the governance and management of the scheme.

The review’s recommendations were approved by University Council on 10 October 2018. The refreshed equality scheme will be in place from 2018 to 2022.

The review identified that priorities need to be set to enable achievement of institutional objectives (see Appendix 1) to ensure the scheme’s success, especially given the large-scale changes taking place across the University.

It was agreed that the University needed to focus on the most pressing inequalities as institutional imperatives. These are currently BAME student retention; the gap between BAME and white students for the award of good degrees (i.e. a 1st or 2.1); the underrepresentation of employees with protected characteristics in senior roles; and line manager capability in recruiting and developing individuals and teams from diverse backgrounds.

The review also proposed a new governance and management structure to encourage greater commitment and visibility to institutional objectives at senior management level. Student objectives are owned by the PVC, students, and staff objectives are owned by the Group People Director, People Services. Two Senior Accountable Executives (one for student and one for staff objectives) are responsible for the delivery of the related KPIs (key performance indicators).

2.2. About the OU

The OU in facts and figures

Since the OU’s launch in 1969, almost 1.9 million people worldwide have achieved their learning goals by studying with us.

The OU is the biggest university in the UK with:

- Almost 175,000 students (All data accessed January 2016)
Our institution is diverse:

- We are the largest provider of higher education for disabled people – over 24,700 studied with us in 2017/18
- Around 1,400 OU students study in prison or a secure unit
- Around 11% of our UK students are from ethnic minorities
- 59% of our students are female
- We have students taking OU modules alongside A levels, and we have students in their 90s – the average age is 29 and more than 30% of students are aged 25 or under

OU mission and core values

The Open University’s mission is to be open to people, places, methods and ideas. The University was founded to open higher education to all, regardless of circumstances or location. The OU has developed and embodies a set of core values that make it the most distinctive institution in higher education – we are inclusive, innovative and responsive. These values provide a moral and intellectual compass for the University in a changing world.

Open entry

We have no minimum entry requirements for admission to most undergraduate qualifications. We teach primarily at a distance through a system of supported open learning, which includes the provision of high-quality print and multimedia teaching materials, together with personalised tuition, learning feedback and support. Personalised tuition takes the form of online and face-to-face tutorials, online forums, telephone and email tuition, and residential and day schools, depending on the module and qualification being studied.

Four nations of the UK and internationally

The Open University is the only UK-wide University with centres in all four nations of the UK: England, Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales. Through economies of scale, we can deliver a breadth of programmes and curriculum to each of the four nations. Higher education is increasingly distinctive and devolved – what is required in one country may not be appropriate in another. Our curriculum, learning and teaching and research strategies, and our student support services must be increasingly mindful of different needs, and we must continue to guard against Anglo-centric policy and decision-making. Particular attention is given to meeting the principle in our Welsh Language Standards, to treat the English and Welsh languages on the basis of equality in the conduct of all our public business in Wales.
2.3. The University Strategy

The OU's Strategic Plan to 2021/2022 is now available online and a Welsh language version is available. Approved by Council on Tuesday 5 March 2019, the plan conveys a clear direction for the coming years and sets out how we will build on 50 years of success to reach more students with life-changing learning. It confirms our commitment to do what we do best - promote educational opportunity and social justice, improve lives and enrich communities across the four nations of the UK, Ireland and around the world.

- Ensuring student success continues to be our main strategic objective, supported by four others:
  - Delivering excellent teaching and research
  - Enhancing our future growth and sustainability
  - Investing in technology that enables success
  - Fostering a dynamic and inclusive culture

Ensuring Student Success

- Support the delivery of a market-leading enquirer experience by attracting and retaining increasing numbers of students from diverse backgrounds
- Support a study experience that maximises students’ chances by responding positively to individual needs and circumstances and addressing barriers to success
- Support journeys from informal to formal learning by promoting diversity and inclusion through open media

Delivering excellent teaching and Research

- Support research and scholarship that is externally recognised for excellence and impact by leading research and scholarship in social justice and inclusion
- Support people and a culture that enable us to deliver high performance, by attracting and retaining a diverse workforce, by promoting equality through all our people processes, and by drawing on the creativity, skills and experience of our diverse workforce
- Support financial sustainability by preventing unnecessary costs by considering different needs and circumstances from the outset

Enhancing our future growth and sustainability

- Support financial sustainability by preventing unnecessary costs by considering different needs and circumstances from the outset

Investing in Technology that enables success

- Support flexible, integrated and robust systems by embedding accessibility in procurement and systems development
3. Arrangements for managing and embedding equality

3.1. Leadership

Strong, visible equality, diversity and inclusion leadership is an essential component of this equality scheme. The Vice-Chancellor is the Institutional Sponsor for Equality, Diversity and Inclusion and has appointed VCE level Champions for some protected characteristics and sponsors and Senior Accountable Executives (SAEs) for the institutional equality objectives.

The Equality, Diversity and Inclusion Steering Group, chaired by the PVC, Students, sets the rolling 4 year strategy for Equality, Diversity and Inclusion. The University Secretary will continue to hold the portfolio responsibility for ensuring compliance with equality legislation and promoting best practice across the institution.

3.2. Staff learning and development

As an educational institution, the OU has a strong commitment to providing learning and development opportunities for staff to enable them to be effective in their roles and to fulfil their potential.

Everyone working at the OU needs to know something about equality and diversity. Staff working directly with students need to be able to respond to a wide range of needs and circumstances. Staff who develop learning materials need to know how to create inclusive and accessible resources. Managers need to know how to manage a diverse workforce effectively. Some staff need more specialist equality knowledge, such as those involved in advising others.

All staff need to know about their responsibilities under the Public Sector Equality Duty (Great Britain) and the Section 75 duty (Northern Ireland). Our core training for all staff, the Equality Essentials module, provides full details of institutional and individual responsibility. It introduces staff to equality and diversity at the Open University and promotes the impact and benefits that can be achieved from positive and fair behaviours. The Understanding Unconscious Bias module introduces staff to the idea of unconscious or ‘hidden’ bias, and how it can impact in the workplace. It provides staff with the opportunity to think about situations where their own unconscious bias might affect their ability to make objective decisions or judgements. Both online courses are available on My Learning Centre.

Accessible information and services

We are committed to ensuring that our services are fully accessible to everyone who is eligible or has a legitimate interest in accessing them.

For disabled students or students with health conditions that affect their ability to study, to attend residential school, or to take examinations, we have our own access centre to assess student needs. (For further information, see the Services for Disabled Services website at: http://www.open.ac.uk/disability/.)
We provide a wide range of alternative formats, services, and reasonable adjustments for our disabled staff to enable individuals to perform effectively in their roles.

Using computers and the internet to enhance study is an essential part of learning at higher education level. Students need regular and reliable access to a computer and the internet to take full advantage of our online services, including module learning materials, forums, and the library.

The OU’s student Accessibility Policy sets out our commitment to supporting all our students in ways that effectively meet their needs and aligns with the Student Charter and the OU’s overall strategies.

3.3. Equality analysis

Equality analysis, formerly known as equality impact assessment, is the method used by the OU to give due regard to equality when developing or revising any strategy, policy, project, procedure or practice. It is a way of considering different needs and circumstances that may result in unintended consequences.

The need for equality analysis is identified through the annual business planning process or when unplanned change to policy is required. The aims of equality analysis are to: identify potential discrimination and remove or reduce this as far as possible; to consider how policy might support the promotion and advancement of equality of opportunity; and to consider how policy might help to promote and foster good relations. Equality analysis helps us to make better quality decisions and reduce cost by not having to revisit policy that is not fit for purpose.

We have developed detailed guidance and a template to support staff in carrying out an equality analysis, which are available to staff on the equality and diversity intranet. Each equality analysis will identify the likely impact on equality of opportunity for those affected by the policy, and the impact on good relations. For all the characteristics protected under the Equality Act 2010 and Section 75 of the Northern Ireland Act, the analysis will show whether the impact is major or minor, or whether there is no impact. It will also give details of any measures that would be taken to mitigate any adverse impact on the promotion of equality of opportunity.

3.4. Monitoring and reporting

We will monitor progress against the key performance indicators agreed for the objectives in the equality scheme. We will analyse a wide range of equality monitoring data and act on it, revising our objectives where appropriate. Our annual monitoring and reporting arrangements consist of a cycle whereby we analyse different information in different years. We have staggered our monitoring in this way so that the information we produce is always put to good use.

All the characteristics protected by the Public Sector Equality Duty in Great Britain and the Section 75 duty in Northern Ireland are included in the scope of our monitoring strategy.

The information below sets out the indicators we monitor every year and those we monitor on alternate years.
Students

• Undergraduate and postgraduate students: participation, completion and academic attainment (annually)
• Postgraduate research students: participation and withdrawal (annually)
• Non-UK/overseas students: participation (annually)
• All students: complaints and appeals, student survey data (annually)

Staff and governing bodies

Senate and Council governing bodies: composition (alternate years; 2018)

Internal staff and Associate Lecturer staff:

• Workforce composition by location and faculty (also by unit, job category, grade band and mode for internal staff) – alternate years (2018)
• Reasonable adjustments – alternate years (2018)
• Leavers – alternate years (2018)
• Grievances, bullying and harassment, disciplinary – alternate years (2019)
• Development - alternate years (2019)
• Pay gap - alternate years (2019)
• Staff survey data (also promotions for internal staff) - alternate years (2019)

Agency and temporary staff:

• Workforce composition – alternate years (2018)

Consultants:

• Workforce composition – alternate years (2019)

Residential Schools’ staff:

• Recruitment – alternate years (2018)

In addition, under the 2018-2022 Equality Scheme we will:

a) Continue our drive to monitor religion or belief, and sexual orientation for our staff and students. This was introduced in the 2012-16 scheme and we are committed to encouraging greater levels of self-declaration.

b) Maintain paper-based monitoring of community background for our staff in Northern Ireland.

c) Encourage students with caring responsibilities to self-declare and to update information as and when circumstances change.

d) Develop a robust method for collating data related to maternity/parental leave and returners.
We do not intend to introduce monitoring for gender transitioning. We have a legal duty to protect the privacy of individuals who have transitioned, so we will not retain any records relating to gender change.

3.5. Publishing

As a public authority, the OU is required to publish information about its employees and other persons affected by its policies. All information is published on our website at http://www.open.ac.uk/equality-diversity.

We publish our equality scheme; our institutional equality objectives, plans and reports; and a significant range of data on our employees, students, and governance bodies annually.

It is our intention to continue to publish the following:

- Our current equality scheme (available in a variety of formats within 10 days of receiving a request)
- Our outcome-focused equality objectives (Appendix 1)
- Our Welsh Language Standard
- Equality Analysis Reports
- An annual report showing progress against our equality objectives, and a summary of our equality analysis work,
- Annual monitoring reports
- Annual report to the Equality Commission for Northern Ireland
- Any report produced following a full review of this scheme

3.6. Charters and benchmarking

The University has been aiming towards attaining equality charter awards. Our participation in these awards places the OU in good stead to demonstrate its ability to be held to external scrutiny in relation to equality, diversity and inclusion. Committing to plans of action for treating existing gaps/unequal representation is a part of the Charter process, which is expected to change culture and attitudes across the OU.

We have identified the following areas of focus:

- Gender: Increase the proportion of women in senior roles.
- Disability: Increase the satisfaction of disabled staff and students to reduce the attainment gap between disabled and non-disabled students.
- Sexual Orientation: Ensure that our workplace and services are inclusive.
- Race: To reduce the ethnicity attainment gap; to improve the perception and satisfaction with the OU.

The OU has been awarded an Athena SWAN Institutional Bronze award, five Departmental Bronze awards and one Departmental Silver award for our work and commitment to improving the proportion of women in senior roles in STEM subjects (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics). We are currently working towards an Athena SWAN Institutional Silver Award.

We achieved the Disability Standard Bronze Award in 2016 from the Business Disability Forum for our work supporting disabled students and staff.

The OU is aiming for a Bronze Award in the Race Equality Charter in July 2019.

3.7. Staff networks

We will continue to encourage and support self-organised staff diversity networks as a way of assisting staff in developing their careers. The networks have an important role as subject matter experts for consultation on equality, diversity and inclusion issues.

Our OU staff networks include the following:

BAME Staff Network

The BAME network was formed with the purpose of providing networking opportunities for all BME staff, and promoting peer support, confidence building and greater inclusivity.

Care and Caring Network @ OU

Care and Caring Network (OUCCN) is a staff network for knowledge exchange around care; the promotion of carers' rights within the OU; and advice and guidance in carer-related development.

Enabling Staff @OU Network

The Enabling Staff @OU Network is a network for promoting the integration of disabled staff in the workforce, by supporting both disabled staff and their colleagues.

International Communities Support Network

The International Communities Support Network is self-organised staff diversity network for migrants at the OU, which is open to all EU nationals, non-UK nationals and UK nationals. It aims to support staff and students who may feel vulnerable in view of the results of the EU Referendum, and to lobby and defend the rights of those affected.

LGBT+ Staff Network

The LGBT+ (lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender) staff network aims to respond to social needs and give voice to staff, enabling issues of concern or interest to be shared and raised.

Women @OU Staff Network

Women@OU is an all-inclusive group that works to promote gender equality and raise the profile of women at The Open University.

4. Discrimination, compliance, review and complaints

4.1. Dealing with discrimination, bullying, harassment and victimisation

We will not tolerate any form of bullying or harassment. Examples include unwanted physical contact, personal insults or name-calling, sexual innuendo, coercion, constant unfounded criticism, unwanted intrusion, persistent patronising or exclusion, and derogatory comments. This is not an exhaustive list and further examples are included in the two bullying and harassment codes of practice, one for students and the other for staff. These provide guidance on dealing with bullying and harassment, and information on the informal and formal options available to staff and students to tackle occurrences. Staff and students are encouraged to address issues immediately so that these can be resolved informally wherever possible and are not allowed to escalate.

Discrimination, harassment or victimisation, whether direct, indirect, by association or perception, (see Appendix 4 for definitions) based on any of the individual characteristics or circumstances covered by this equality scheme are included within the scope of the bullying and harassment codes. All staff and students have a right to raise a concern in relation to decisions that they believe have been made based on their individual characteristics and which result in negative consequences or differential treatment. We will give added weight to the seriousness of such cases. Malicious allegations made under the bullying and harassment codes will be treated as serious disciplinary offences. The dignity and respect policy for students and the bullying and harassment policy for staff advise who should be contacted to report any accusations of discrimination or unfair treatment.

For staff, the Employee Assistance Programme is a support and counselling service that covers a wide range of issues, including responding effectively to bullying and harassment. Serious cases can be raised through the grievance or disciplinary procedures and, where proven, may be treated as acts of gross misconduct, which could lead to dismissal. Serious student cases are dealt with under the Code of Practice for Student Discipline and, where proven, could result in temporary or permanent exclusion from the University.

4.2. Assessing compliance, evaluation and review

We are committed to the fulfilment of our Public Sector Equality Duty and our Northern Ireland Section 75 obligations in all parts of our work.

The responsibility for the effective coordination and implementation of this equality scheme lies with the EDI Steering Group (EDISG) Chair who is accountable to VCE.

The responsibility for the institutional equality objectives lies with VCE, who is accountable to Council through the VC.

The responsibility for Unit level EDI annual objectives lies with Unit Heads.
The University’s EDI team will continue to be the point of expertise and will act as consultants in supporting the University to achieve the institutional equality objectives and related key performance indicators.

The EDISG will be responsible for setting the rolling 4-year strategy which will drive the aims and objectives for the equality scheme with input from the Champions as required.

In addition to this scheme, the University produces a set of objectives (Appendix 1) which includes performance indicators against which we will measure progress.

An annual review of progress and delivery against objectives is coordinated by the EDI team on behalf of the EDISG. The review is aligned with the University’s normal business planning cycle. Issues arising from the annual review, and progress against the objectives and key performance indicators, are reported to the EDISG (at its regular meetings) and directly to the Sponsors of the institutional equality objectives.

In year 4 of the 2018-2022 scheme, we will review and evaluate its effectiveness regarding the achievement of our equality objectives, the implementation of our Public Sector Equality Duty, and the implementation of our Northern Ireland Section 75 duty.

The following information summarises our review arrangements:

Every 4 months
Ensure compliance and promotion of good practice; address non-compliance - EDISG

Annual

Provision of equality monitoring information - Various internal data providers

Every 2 years
Full review of objectives and key performance indicators - EDISG

Every 4 years
Full review of objectives and key performance indicators - EDISG with input from the EDI Implementation Group and in consultation with the Vice-Chancellor’s Executive

Feedback and complaints
We welcome any questions, feedback or complaints you may have regarding our equality scheme. These should be addressed to the Senior Manager, EDI and Wellbeing. Contact details are provided on the inside front cover of this document; we would recommend that these are presented in writing.
Complaints in relation to the provision of a programme of study or related to academic or administrative services or appeals in relation to a decision taken by an individual or academic body charged with making decisions on students’ progression, assessment and awards should not be sent to the Equality and Diversity Team.

You can make a complaint if you believe that you have been directly affected by our alleged failure to comply with our equality scheme or if you believe we have discriminated unlawfully against you.

Appendix 3: A quick start guide to the Equality Act 2010 (GB)

What is the Equality Act?
The Equality Act is applicable in England, Scotland and Wales. The main provisions of the Act were implemented in two phases:

The first phase became law on 1 October 2010. In broad terms, it harmonises, updates and amends previous anti-discrimination legislation, providing greater protection for all individuals across a wide range of 'protected characteristics'.

The second phase became law on 5 April 2011. This enacts a new ‘public sector equality duty’, which amends and expands the existing duty to cover a wider range of characteristics.

What University functions are covered by the Act?
The Act covers all our functions including education; employment; services and other public functions (e.g. broadcasting); associations; contracting and partnerships.

What are the ‘protected characteristics’?
Nine characteristics are explicitly protected, as follows: age; disability; gender reassignment (transgender); marriage and civil partnership; pregnancy and maternity; race/ethnicity; religion or belief; sex (gender); and sexual orientation. Care/dependency is also indirectly covered – see below.

What is ‘prohibited conduct’ under the Act?
Direct discrimination and indirect discrimination continue to be prohibited, but are now extended across all the characteristics, except for pregnancy and maternity.

Pregnancy and maternity have specific protection for the duration of pregnancy and up to 26 weeks after birth. Students are explicitly protected from less favourable treatment if breastfeeding.

Protection from harassment is extended to all characteristics with the exceptions of pregnancy and maternity, and marriage and civil partnership.

Individuals are protected from victimisation, where a person makes an allegation or brings proceedings under the Act and suffers a detriment as a result.

Discrimination by association is extended to cover all the characteristics, except for pregnancy and maternity. For example, carers are protected because of their association with someone with a protected characteristic, such as a disabled person or an older person.

Similarly, discrimination because of perception is extended to the same characteristics. This means that individuals who are treated less favourably because they are perceived to have a characteristic, are protected, even though they don’t have that characteristic.
It continues to be unlawful not to make a reasonable adjustment for a disabled person. A disabled person does not have to show that their impairment affects a capacity, such as mobility or manual dexterity. It continues to be lawful to treat a disabled person more favourably than other people.

It is now unlawful to ask disability or health-related questions during a selection process, with some exceptions. People Services has provided detailed guidance to managers on this provision.

A new protection, discrimination arising from disability, has been introduced. It means that unfavourable treatment because of something connected with a person’s disability is unlawful, for example, refusing to allow a student to use a recording device in a tutorial. In practice, providing that reasonable adjustments are made, discrimination should not arise from disability.

What are the positive action provisions?

The positive action provisions in the Equality Act replicate those in previous equality legislation. Where we reasonably think that people who share a protected characteristic suffer a disadvantage, have different needs, or have disproportionately low rates of participation in an activity, we may take action to overcome or minimise this, provided any action taken is proportionate. This provision applies to all functions, including employment and education - we will continue to use these provisions, where appropriate. However, the provisions are complex, and you should seek advice from the Equality and Diversity Team if you are considering using them.

What is the ‘public sector equality duty’?

The University, in the exercise of its functions, is required to have due regard to the need to:

- Eliminate unlawful discrimination, harassment, victimisation and other prohibited conduct.
- Advance equality of opportunity, which involves removing or minimising disadvantage, taking steps to meet needs, and encouraging participation.
- Foster good relations, which involves tackling prejudice and promoting understanding.

How does the duty apply to me?

In carrying out your work, in making decisions, in developing, approving or implementing policy and procedures, you must give due regard to the three aims of the equality duty, outlined above. Due regard means that the weight you give to equality needs to be proportionate to its relevance and some roles and functions have greater equality relevance than others. This means being vigilant to anything that you may do that may lead to unlawful discrimination, or anything you could do that would help to prevent the ‘prohibited conducts’ described earlier. It also means being proactive in identifying ways of advancing equality of opportunity and fostering good relations through the work that you normally do.
Are some provisions of the Act not being implemented?

Plans to introduce a public sector duty regarding socio-economic inequalities were shelved prior to the first phase implementation. However, The Open University aims to reduce socio-economic inequalities and it is an included characteristic in this equality scheme and in our Widening Participation strategy.

Plans to introduce protection from combined discrimination (dual characteristics) were shelved in the budget announcement in March 2011.

Additionally, we have taken the decision not to implement the voluntary positive action provision in recruitment and promotions, which allows employers to consider underrepresentation or disadvantage when faced with making a choice between two or more candidates who are of equal merit. People Services has issued specific guidance to managers on this subject. In practice, we have decided that this provision can easily be misunderstood and any small gains to be made are far outweighed by the risks.

Can I be held personally liable?

Yes, an employee or agent is personally responsible for their own acts of discrimination, harassment or victimisation carried out during their employment.

The University will not be liable where it can show that it has taken all reasonable steps to prevent employees from discriminating, harassing or victimising someone.
Appendix 4: Definition of protected characteristics

Age
This includes a person belonging to a specific age (e.g. 32 year olds) or a range of ages (e.g. 18 - 30 year olds).

Caring and dependency
This includes people with responsibilities for caring for children, dependent adults and disabled people.

Disability
A person has a disability they have a physical or mental impairment which has a substantial and long-term adverse effect on that person's ability to carry out normal day-to-day activities.

Gender reassignment
The process of transitioning from one gender to another. The Equality Act 2010 uses the term “transsexual” to refer to people undergoing gender reassignment.

Marriage and civil partnership
In all parts of the UK, marriage is defined as a union between a man and a woman. Same-sex marriage is recognised and performed in England, Scotland and Wales, but not Northern Ireland. Additionally, same-sex couples can have their relationships recognised as ‘civil partnerships’. The law changed on 26 May 2019 in England and Wales to allow opposite-sex couples to enter into civil partnerships too. The Equality Act 2010 protects married and civil partnered couples equally. People not in a legal relationship, and people not in a relationship, are not protected. In Northern Ireland, marital status is protected, and therefore individuals who are single, separated, divorced or widowed are protected.

Political opinion
Members/supporters of any political party, and supporters of no political party.

Pregnancy and maternity
Pregnancy is the condition of being pregnant or expecting a baby. Maternity refers to the period after the birth and is linked to maternity leave in the employment context. In the non-work context, protection against maternity discrimination is for 26 weeks after giving birth, and this explicitly includes not treating a woman less favourably because she is breastfeeding.
Race
This includes a person or group of people defined by their race, colour, caste, and nationality (including citizenship) ethnic or national origin.

Religion or belief
Religion means any religion. Belief means any religious or philosophical belief, including lack of belief, e.g. Atheism. Generally, a belief should affect life choices or the way someone lives for it to be included in the definition.

Sex
A man or a woman (often referred to as ‘gender’).

Sexual orientation
Whether a person’s sexual attraction is towards their own sex, the opposite sex, both sexes, or neither sex (asexual, which is not the same as celibacy).

Who is protected?
- People who have one or more protected characteristics.
- People who are perceived to have any protected characteristic.
- People who are associated with someone who has any protected characteristic.
Appendix 5: Definition of prohibited conducts

People are not allowed to discriminate, harass or victimise another person because they have any of the protected characteristics.

- Direct discrimination means treating one person worse than another because of a protected characteristic. Direct discrimination is always unlawful, except for age, which can be objectively justified in rare circumstances.

- Indirect discrimination means putting in place a rule or policy or way of doing things that has a worse impact on someone with a protected characteristic than someone without one, when this cannot be objectively justified.

- Harassment includes unwanted conduct related to a protected characteristic which has the purpose or effect or violating someone’s dignity, or which creates a hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for someone with a protected characteristic.

- Discrimination by association means treating a person less favourably because of their association with a person who has a protected characteristic. For example, not agreeing to a reasonable adjustment such as slightly varying working patterns for a person who needs to care for their disabled husband.

- Discrimination by perception means treating a person less favourably because you think they have a protected characteristic.

- Victimisation is treating someone unfavourably because they have taken (or might be taking) action to claim their entitlements or legal rights or supporting somebody who is doing so.
