Summary of policy

This policy applies to current and former students who inform the University that they have made, or intend to make, the transition to a gender other than the one they were assigned at birth. Gender Identity is defined as 'One's internal sense of one's self as a man, a woman, or another gender'. Open University staff should be familiar with this document when supporting gender diverse and trans students. This document is published in line with the University's objective to improve equality policy and guidance for staff and students. Further information about the University's equality objectives is published on our website at <http://www.open.ac.uk/equality-diversity/>

Scope

What this policy covers

This policy applies to current and former students who have studied at the Open University and have made, or intend to make, the transition to a gender other than the one they were assigned as birth. This includes Access students, Undergraduates, Postgraduates, Apprentices, Alumni and Microcredential learners. This policy advises on options of how you can change your recorded gender with us as well as how to proceed if you require an updated certificate with your transitioned details included.

What this policy does not cover

This policy does not cover changes to your recorded gender with your employer as an apprentice.

Version number: 3.1	Approved by: Delegate, Director of Academic Services
Effective from: June 2023	Date for review: May 2024

This should be discussed in accordance with the procedure relevant to your employer. Changing your details with the Open University will not change details held by your employer. The Open University can only support with records held on our own systems and not those held by third parties (for example, students in secure environments).

The Open University Student Charter Values

The Student Charter was developed jointly by The Open University and the OU Students Association. It is a declaration of our shared values and the commitments we make to each other. This document has been developed with the Student Charter values as its foundation.

Version number: 3.1	Approved by: Delegate, Director of Academic Services
Effective from: June 2023	Date for review: May 2024

1 Introduction

Gender refers to a person's sense of themselves as a woman, man, or non-binary person. It can encompass how they experience themselves, how they identify, and how they express themselves in terms of voice, clothing, etc.

The Open University (OU) recognises that the experience of transition from one gender identity to another, or identifying as non-binary, may impact on a student's study experience.

2 University policy on gender identity

2.1 Purpose

The OU aims to create an inclusive environment in the workplace, the learning environment, research settings and online activities. For gender diverse students, the learning environment should:

- Be responsive to the student's needs, enabling them to live in the role that is consistent with their gender identity, and to study effectively.
- Be free from discrimination, harassment and victimisation in a place where everyone is treated with dignity and respect.
- Support students in achieving their study goals.

2.2 Principles - Rights and responsibilities

All students

- Declare their gender identity to the OU and have the right to request changes to their OU record in terms of gender identification.
- Trans and non-binary students may request a named contact to assist with study support.

Version number: 3.1	Approved by: Delegate, Director of Academic Services
Effective from: June 2023	Date for review: May 2024

All OU staff have these responsibilities

- To respect the dignity of all students and their self-identified gender status.
- To challenge or report incidents of discrimination, bullying and harassment, or victimisation relating to gender identity.
- To process the student's request to update OU records, systems and documents to reflect their new gender identity, as appropriate.
- Maintain confidentiality in accordance with the relevant clause in the contracts of all OU staff.
- To store information provided by the student appropriately and in accordance with data protection legislation.
- To comply with the law in relation to the protected characteristics of gender reassignment that is in force in Great Britain and Northern Ireland (see appendix 3 of the Gender Identity guidance).
- To comply with its obligations under the Equality Act 2010 in England, Scotland and Wales, Section 75 of the Northern Ireland Act 1998 for Northern Ireland, or any other statutory duty or obligation.
- For specific guidance on how this policy may relate to your personal circumstances, please contact the Gender Identity Champion team (gender-identity@open.ac.uk) who are specially trained to advise on the implementation of this policy.

3 Procedures: Guidance on supporting you as a student

3.1 What we need you to do

You will need to let us know if you would like to make a change to how your gender is recorded on your OU record, so that we can put in place appropriate support.

You can let us know by post or email.

By post (see example in appendix 1)

- Label your envelope as 'Strictly Private and Confidential' and mark "For the attention of the Senior Manager, Student Support (IAG)"

Version number: 3.1	Approved by: Delegate, Director of Academic Services
Effective from: June 2023	Date for review: May 2024

- Use the template in appendix 1 of this document to help record the information you want to be changed.

By sending us this letter you are giving your explicit written consent for this information to be passed to the appropriate team. We will share information only on a need to know basis.

You can email us at Gender-identity@open.ac.uk (completing and attaching the form in appendix 1).

This mailbox is monitored by approximately 15 staff members who have an in-depth understanding of this policy and guidance. If you send an email to this address, to ensure maximum confidentiality, it will not be attached to your student record.

Alternatively, you can email your Student Support Team (details can be found in the Help Centre section on StudentHome). If you choose this option, the email will be picked up by any member of the Student Support Team and will be attached to your OU record.

Please note that all staff with access to student records may see your email if sent to the Student Support Team. Staff with access to student records are trained to handle information in accordance with relevant UK legislation (see appendix 2) and will respect your privacy in this matter. Once your contact relating to gender has been identified, it will then be limited to a restricted number of people (around 15) – see section 5.2.

3.2 What we can do to support you

If you tell us you would like to make a change to how your gender is recorded on your OU record, will we contact you to discuss the following:

- Record changes and timeframes for doing this
- What support you feel you need in relation to your OU studies e.g.
 - Requesting extensions to TMAs
 - Tutorials
 - Exams
 - Residential schools
 - Whether you would like a named contact who can support you over a specified period of time.

Version number: 3.1	Approved by: Delegate, Director of Academic Services
Effective from: June 2023	Date for review: May 2024

If you wish to make changes to your name or gender after you have completed a qualification you can contact us to discuss:

- Record changes and timeframes for doing this
- Requesting changes to certificates

All staff are expected to support students in accordance with the principles set out in the Student Charter.

4. Record changes

4.1 Changing your name

All students are required to provide formal evidence of a change of name for example a copy of a deed poll or marriage certificate. Please see the following link for details of how to do this: <http://www2.open.ac.uk/students/help/updating-your-profile>

4.2 Changing your gender

We do not require evidence of a change of gender. If you wish to change the way in which your gender is recorded on your OU record then you can simply let us know by following the instructions above (see section 3.1 'What we need you to do').

4.3 Changes to communications stored on your record

The Open University has a customer record management system that enables us to record all contact we have with each student. This record includes the following:

- A summary of each phone call
- Emails you send to us
- Emails we send to you (both emails sent to you personally and mailings sent to many students)
- A disability profile if appropriate

All student facing staff have access to these records and your module tutor will have a read-only view of certain aspects. We can therefore offer a variety of updates to these records according to what you feel is appropriate:

Version number: 3.1	Approved by: Delegate, Director of Academic Services
Effective from: June 2023	Date for review: May 2024

1. Keep same student record, OU personal identifier and OU computer username. Change name, title, gender on student relationship management database but all historical data remain unchanged (5-10 working days¹).

Unlawful discrimination of any kind across The Open University will not be tolerated. Safe Space Reporting is available through an online tool through which staff, students, learners and visitors are encouraged to report incidents of assault, bullying, harassment, hate crime, or sexual harassment. It also provides information about what you can do if these incidents happen to you, or to someone you know, and where you can find support.

Related Documentation

Refer to the following documentation in conjunction with this document:

Data Protection Act 1998 \(UK\)

Information about a person's gender identity is considered 'sensitive personal data' and is subject to tighter controls than other personal data. Explicit consent is required before it can be processed. Personal data must be looked after properly following the eight data protection principles, which include ensuring personal data is accurate, secure and processed fairly and lawfully. Failure to change a person's title, name and gender when requested could lead to the following offences under the Act.

- Disclosure of personal information that is used, held, or disclosed unfairly, or without proper security
- Failure to ensure personal information is accurate and up-to-date
- Processing of data likely to cause distress to the individual.

The Human Rights Act 1998 \(UK\)

The Human Rights Act 1998 applies to all four countries of the UK and provides protection to trans people, principally under the right to a private life (Article 8). The courts have interpreted the concept of 'private life' in a very broad way to cover, among other things, a person's right to express a sexual identity, to live a particular lifestyle and to choose the way they look and dress.

Version number: 3.1	Approved by: Delegate, Director of Academic Services
Effective from: June 2023	Date for review: May 2024

It also means that personal information (including official records, photographs and letters) should be kept securely and not shared without the permission of the individual concerned. In addition, the right to privacy states that unless a public authority is acting in accordance with the law, there should be no interference by a public authority with a person's exercise of their right to a private life.

The Gender Recognition Act 2004 (UK)

The sole purpose of a Gender Recognition Certificate (GRC) is to instruct the appropriate UK Registrar General to make a new entry in their register from which a birth certificate can be drawn.

Where a full GRC is issued to a person (Section 9 of the Act):

- the person may have a new birth certificate in their new name and gender which does not reveal their previous name and gender
- the person is legally recognised for all purposes in their acquired gender
- the new gender applies to the interpretation of documents made before as well as after the issue of the certificate, which gives the person the right to request that references to their former name and gender be removed from old records to ensure their former identity is not revealed.

It is an offence for a person who has acquired protected information in an official capacity to disclose the information to any other person without the agreement of the individual.

Equality Act 2010 (Great Britain)

Gender reassignment is a protected characteristic. This means that there is a legal duty to protect from discrimination a person who is proposing to undergo, is undergoing or has undergone a process (or part of a process) to change their sex.

Gender reassignment is included in the Public Sector Equality Duty, which requires public authorities, in the exercise of their functions, to have 'due regard' to the need to:

- eliminate unlawful discrimination, harassment and victimisation and other conduct prohibited by the Act
- advance equality of opportunity between people who share a protected characteristic and those who do not

Version number: 3.1	Approved by: Delegate, Director of Academic Services
Effective from: June 2023	Date for review: May 2024

- foster good relations between people who share a protected characteristic and those who do not.

Failure to change a person's title, name and gender on records when requested to do so could lead to unlawful discrimination.

Sex Discrimination (Gender Reassignment) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 1999

Individuals who intend to undergo, are undergoing or have undergone gender reassignment are protected from discrimination in work and in vocational training (which includes higher education study).

Less favourable treatment relating to absences arising from gender reassignment is unlawful if:

- the treatment is less favourable than if it had been due to sickness or injury
- the treatment is less favourable than if it had been due to some other cause and, having regard to the circumstances of the case, it is reasonable not to be treated less favourably.

Less favourable treatment includes the arrangements relating to terms and conditions or arrangements under which employment or vocational training is offered.

Agender

Having no gender in terms of presentation, identity, etc.

Androgynous

Having a gender identity and/or presentation including both masculinity and femininity, or which is neither masculine nor feminine.

Bigender

Identifying as both male and female. Possibly moving between these.

Cisgender (Cis)

A person who remained in the gender they were assigned at birth.

Demi man/boy or demi woman/girl

Identifying somewhat as male or female, but not completely.

Gender confirmation surgery(ies)

The surgical construction of primary and secondary sexual characteristics (confirmation is a better term than 'reassignment').

Gender dysphoria

A deep sense of unhappiness with one's birth-assigned gender.

Gender fluid

Experiencing oneself as different genders over time.

Gender identity

One's internal sense of one's self as a man, a woman, or another gender.

Gender neutral

Being neither male nor female.

Version number: 3.1	Approved by: Delegate, Director of Academic Services
Effective from: June 2023	Date for review: May 2024

Genderqueer

Identifying and/or presenting in a way, which is outside the gender binary of man/woman. Sometimes also used as an umbrella term for all non-binary people.

Intersex

Possessing any of several variations in sex characteristics including chromosomes, gonads, sex hormones, or genitals that, according to the UN Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights, "do not fit the typical definitions for male or female bodies".

Neutrois

Transgender (trans)

An umbrella term for people who do not present and/or identify as the gender they were assigned at birth either some or all of the time.

Transition

Often used to refer to making a shift from one gender to another.

Transmasculine

Being masculine identified or expressing, but not necessarily being a trans man.

Transphobia

Negative attitudes, emotions, behaviours and structures relating to people on the basis of their being trans in some way, or otherwise not conforming to conventional gender roles.

Trans man

A person who was assigned female at birth but who identifies as a man and lives in a male role (only used when pertinent – otherwise a man).

Version number: 3.1	Approved by: Delegate, Director of Academic Services
Effective from: June 2023	Date for review: May 2024

Trans woman

A person who was assigned male at birth but who identifies as a woman and lives in a female role (only used when pertinent – otherwise a woman)

Terms to AvoidMale to Female / Female to Male (MtF/FtM)

Assumes that people were previously one gender and are now another. Many trans people have experienced themselves as always the gender they now are, albeit that they were not always read that way by others. Therefore trans woman, trans man, and non-binary person are safer terms to use.

Transsexual

Generally associated with an overly medical and pathologising approach. Trans or Transgender is a better/more accurate word.
